

蘭、こころのおもてなし 20th Anniversary
世界らん展日本大賞 2010
Japan Grand Prix・蘭-International Orchid Festival 2010

The world's largest and most prestigious orchid show in which Tokyo Dome will be filled with over 100,000 flowering orchid plants to celebrate the Japan Grand Prix International Orchid Festival 2010.

Theme for the JGP2010: Orchids: Cordial Hospitality-Saying it with Orchids-

The Japan Grand Prix International Orchid Festival 2010 will be held from Saturday 13, February - Sunday 21, February (for nine days) at Tokyo Dome, where all kinds of orchids including oriental and Japanese origin orchids will be displayed. We welcome over 400,000 visitors every year. It is the world's largest orchid show; unique and incomparable in terms of the number and quality of orchids; the varieties of displays; the size of the exhibits and the elegance of their design.

The Japan Grand Prix International Orchid Festival is loved as a great annual floral and cultural event. It highlights how to use orchids to enrich one's home and to create an atmosphere of peace and tranquility, and has become famous throughout the world. This year we celebrate our 20th anniversary.

Exhibitors come from 19 countries and regions to participate in the show. Approximately 100,000 tropical, temperate, oriental and Japanese orchids are exhibited. We have competitive classes for individual plants, and only one, from the hundreds competing, is selected as the Queen of all Flowers, the Grand Champion, and is awarded the "Japan Grand Prix," with 2 million yen and a saloon car as the prize (Note: The total prize money awarded at the JGP comes to 12,250,000 yen).

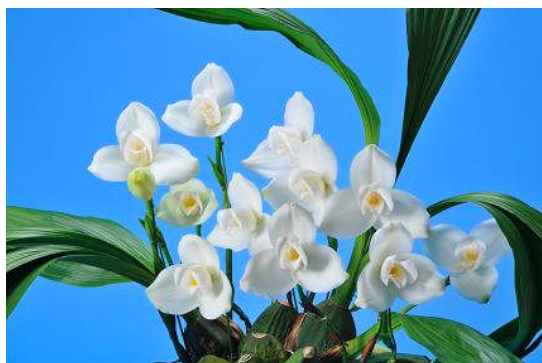

Overview in the site at JGP 2009

Competitions and Organizer's Displays are the highlights

Entries are classified into six divisions. The grand champion (Japan Grand Prix) and other higher prize winners of the Division I Individual are exhibited in the middle of the venue. In the surrounding area, all entries in the Division I Individual are displayed. There are also exhibits of other competition divisions; Fragrance, Display, Flower Arrangement, Arts and Crafts, and Miniature Orchid Garden.

In addition to the competitions area, there are the organizer's exhibitions and special exhibitions like "The orchid world by Shogo Kariyazaki" and "Orchid displays by an ambassador and wives of ambassadors to Japan." In the sales area, about 130 vendors from all over the world sell orchids and other miscellaneous goods. Additionally, official souvenirs and other goods from the show organizers are available.

Lyc. Shoalhaven 'Yoko's Delight' exhibited by Masahiro Saito from Ibaraki Prefecture

In celebration of the 20th anniversary, we exhibit based on the theme "Orchids: Cordial Hospitality –Saying it with Orchids". We would like to suggest to visitors how they can enjoy orchids in their daily lives. Also we would like to express our thanks to all orchid-loving people who have supported our festival.

"Orchid Avenue" is from the entrance of the venue to the Symbol Podium, where twenty large year's plates decorated with orchids are exhibited. Each plate diameter is 2.5 meters in diameter.

Orchid Square is a place for communication. Here visitors can look, touch, learn and enjoy orchids. We suggest also how to enjoy orchids in the house, or how to grow orchids and other topics of interest. Orchid culture lessons are held for visitors where they can learn from orchid experts how to grow orchids.

Special exhibition by her highness Princess Takamado “THINKING ABOUT OUR PLANET”

Her highness Princess Takamado exhibit a display themed as “THINKING ABOUT OUR PLANET.” In this display, most of all materials used are natural. On the lacquered-coated table, there is the basin. Orchids, coral sands and films are arranged. The film is by the Jin Tatsumura, who directs documentary movies and is probably best known for the film “Gaia Symphony.”

Miniature Display of Orchids by an Ambassador and Wives of Ambassadors -Dish Display-

The Dish Display is an invitation to enjoy orchids in the home with orchids displayed with a table setting. Since 2004, the exhibits have been produced with the co-operation of embassies. The participating countries in 2010: Canada, France, Madagascar, the Republic of Colombia and the Republic of Indonesia.

“Paphiopedilum sanderianum” and “Cypripedium marcanthum var. rebunense”

The rare orchids, Paphiopedilum sanderianum and Cypripedium marcanthum var. rebunense will be exhibited.

Paphiopedilum sanderianum grows wild in the limited area on Kalimantan Island in Malaysia. It was found in 1885, but until 1978 it had not been seen anywhere and it was considered a nonexistent orchid. The feature of the Paphiopedilum sanderianum has petals that are very long at about 90 cm. It used to be considered that insects like ants pollinated the plant by climbing on the petals to the flowers. But now it is believed that the long petals are to appeal to off flying insects because the plants grow in bluffs.

Cypripedium marcanthum var. rebunense grows wild only on Rebun Island off Hokkaido. Since 1994, it has been listed in the red data book of Japan. The plants at the exhibit will be replanted in Hokkaido after the festival.

In the six divisions, within the competitive classes, there are world-class exhibits to attract the attention of orchid lovers.

Division I: Individual Plant (Japan Grand Prix candidates)

All types of orchids including those of tropical, temperate, oriental and Japanese origin will be judged, based on their individual qualities. The orchid can be in a pot, as a cut flower or as a foliage plant. There are over 1,000 entries every year. They are divided into categories which are judged separately.

Division II: Fragrance

All types of orchids including those of tropical, temperate, oriental origin or Japanese origin will be judged based on fragrance. The orchid can be potted or as cut flowers.

Division III: Display

This division consists of displays of orchids including tropical, temperate, oriental and Japanese origin orchids. The Amateur Class (for orchid societies and individuals) and the Open Class (other than amateurs) will be judged separately. Those who enter the Display Division will receive a subsidy according to the size of their display. “The Modern Display Award” will be given in this division.

Division IV: Flower Arrangement

Division IV consists of floral designs using orchids: interior decoration; gift arrangements; and bouquets. Each category will be judged separately.

Division V: Arts and Crafts

There are six categories: paintings; botanical art; photographs; art flower; pressed flower and dried flower; and other works using orchids as subjects or materials.

Division VI: Miniature Orchid Garden

This division includes a mixture of plants, including potted orchids and other green plants arranged in containers, using ornaments if appropriate.
